

Reviving Fort Smith Documentary: The Unexpected Impact of Public Art

Kelly Schaber, Master of Arts Candidate

Human Dimensions of Organizations, The University of Texas at Austin

Research Question:

How can community art be a vehicle for social and economic change?

Methods: Ethnographic documentary, interviews, and literature analysis.

Budget: Fully funded via private donations and crowd funding campaign.
$8,900

Conclusions: Public Art can be a catalyst for economic development. Participation in public art can foster community engagement, collaboration, and ignite communication. Art can positively impact individuals psychologically, physiologically, and creatively.

Visit www.kellyschaber.com to view the full documentary